Regulatory Update – South Africa

SABS South African Bureau of Standards EMC / EMI Approval service re-opened

Following PCS's Regulatory Update issued on 6th June concerning SABS (South African Bureau of Standards), we have obtained official confirmation that SABS has now re-opened for business and is accepting applications for EMC / EMI Type Approval.

Changes to the process have been introduced, including a preliminary assessment by officials ahead of a formal review. Foreign manufacturers are however still permitted to act in the capacity of local Approval holder.

The approval price, lead time and documents needed to support such a request will vary depending on the type of product undergoing certification and the outcome of SABS's initial review.
